IMPORTANT HINTS FOR THE LAST SHOPPING DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

FIRST. If it should rain tomorrow, order your carriage or take the car direct to the Palais Royal, where, under one roof, will be found 100,000 articles suitable for Xinas Presents for young and old, in all stations of life.

SECOND. If a fine day let your morning call be at the Palais Royal. The 400 clerks are less fatigued and less busy than in the afternoon. You will shop with greater comfort in the morning. If possible, leave order this evening for candy; 29c. pound for such as sold at the confectioners' for 40 cents. Help yourself to free sample.

THIRD. Owing to our buyer's late trips to New York you will find the Palsie Royal's stocks more complete than elsewhere, and, since the late purchases were made so advantageously, prices in some instances are extraordinarily loss for the finest goods. To shop with discretion tomorrow read through the columns below very carefully, otherwise you may miss the best bargains in the city.

explanation for the throngs that have surged in here so far this week. Never before were such qualifies sold at such figures as we quote. To fully appreciate this statement you should see for yourself, as others have done before you.

People after suitable presents would do well to examine our stock. Despite the fact that we have sold myriads of puirs of SHOES and SLIPPERS during the past ten days, the stock is just as complete as ever.

The prices run from 75 CENTS up. Any taste and pocket book can be gratified. There is more absolute worth crowded into every
